A large John Deere backhoe loader is shown in operation on a construction site. The machine is yellow and black, with its rear-mounted backhoe arm extended. A worker wearing a yellow hard hat and a high-visibility vest is visible through the glass of the operator's cab. The background shows a concrete structure under construction under a blue sky with scattered clouds. The machine is positioned on a dirt surface, and a large pile of earth is visible on the left side of the frame.
